

DECORATE GRAVES AT MEMORIAL

School Children and Old Soldiers Parade to Hillside Cemetery

REV. MUMFORD IS SPEAKER

The local chapter of the Daughters of the Grand Army of the Republic desire to publicly express their thanks to the friends, who so ably assisted them in carrying out the program for Decoration Day. Especially do we appreciate the kindness and courtesy of the boys in the band and the willingness with which they co-operated with those in charge of the service. We realize the effort made to get the musicians together and we deeply appreciate it.

We also extend our thanks to the friends who generously gave the use of their automobiles and to the teachers and the long line of little children who played so large a part in the success of the service.

To the male quartette—to the speaker of the day—whose splendid patriotic address found an echo in every loyal heart and to all the friends who helped us give due observance to the day which belongs to our soldier dead we hereby extend our grateful thanks.

Once again a Nation has gathered to scatter flowers over graves that extend from ocean to ocean and from lake to lake. Not only is it the day set apart to pay respect to the dead defenders of the flag but also one in which to show courtesy to the living. Let them feel assured that when in the wisdom of the great Commander they too shall answer the last roll call, we will scatter over them the fairest flowers of May and to our children's children shall the story be told—not of "what we say here—but of what they did there," to make possible a nation one and undivided over which floats the flag that never yet has "touched the ground."

ROUND POSTS MOST DURABLE

One Kind of Timber Will Last as Long as Others if Amount of Heartwood is the Same.

Is a split fence post as durable as a round fence post? This is a question frequently asked of the United States Department of Agriculture. The fact is, says the forest products laboratory, one kind of post will last about as long as the other if the amount of heartwood is the same in both. But if the percentage of sapwood is increased by splitting, the split post will be less durable and if the percentage of heartwood is increased, it will be more durable than a round one. Posts of spruce, hemlock, or any of the true firs are exceptions to this rule, because their heartwood and sapwood are about equally durable.

When posts are to be treated with creosote or other preservative, a round post is preferable to a split post, because of the comparative ease with which the sapwood can be treated. The heart faces on split posts do not, as a rule, absorb preservative well. Split red-oak posts will take treatment, because the wood is very porous, but the heart faces of split posts of many other species, notably white oak, red gum, and Douglas fir, resist the penetration of preservative, even under heavy pressures.

TOO MUCH MANURE INJURIOUS

Fertilizer May Burn Crop if Season is Very Dry—No Fear of Harm if Worked In.

The claim that too much manure will burn up the crop is only partly true. It may if it is a very dry season and the manure is not worked well into the soil. But there is little likelihood of injury from a heavy application, if worked in right. For here corn has been lost through too little and through too much manure.

PLANT ENGLISH PEAS EARLY

Seed Should Be Put Into Ground as Soon as Soil Will Permit—Some Good Varieties.

English peas should be planted just as soon as the soil will permit. Thomas Laxton, Alaskan, Horsford's Market Garden, and the Telephone are excellent varieties, and the Telephone late. The seed should be sown thickly in the drill in rows 3 feet wide and covered 5 to 6 inches deep.

Hartford Giants of Chicago Here Next Sunday

Antioch played two runaway games over Sunday and the holiday, Sunday defeating the much-touted Johnsbury team 24 to 12 and Memorial day the First National Bank team 25 to 2.

Sunday's game the timely hitting with the assistance of errors on the part of the Johnsbury team enabled the home team to chalk up six runs in the first followed up in the second with seven more runs. From that time on the game was never in danger and Manager Tarbell took advantage of this lead by trying out two pitchers, Dupro and Nabor. King, the shortstop on the Johnsbury team, was of great assistance to the Antioch team, contributing about five errors in a row.

The game Tuesday was marked with terrible assault in batting on the part of the Antioch men assisted with errors on the part of the visiting team. Bob Wilton started the game and certainly was pitching pretty well, one hit only being registered against him. In the first four innings Wilton fanned eight men, letting up in the fifth and sixth, when Ochs, a new recruit replaced him for a try-out. Ochs succeeded in fanning five of the eleven men who faced him, the runs scored being brought about by the loose play of the boys.

The Hartford Giants will be the opponents next Sunday. This is a colored team from the south side of Chicago, and they have the reputation of being a real classy bunch of players.

Program Given at Wilmot Parent-Teachers' Meeting

A most interesting program was given by the P. T. A. of the Wilmot schools at the local hall on Monday night. The opening number was a song by a group of five girls from the upper grades called "Old Time Fashions." They wore appropriate costumes. Miss Jamison's first number of the style show was next. A group of girls appeared wearing aprons of their own make and design. Mrs. Arthur Bloss read a report of the visiting committee that inspected the Wilmot schools. Her report was very interesting and Mrs. Bloss spoke very highly of the work done by teachers and pupils this past year. William Fiegel gave a reading that was very well received, entitled "I Have to Go to School." The next scene of the style show followed. A group of ten girls appeared in gowns they had made of gingham and sang. The report of the P. T. A. meeting at Fond du Lac was also read by Mrs. Bloss and she gave a thorough resume of the work covered by the delegates while there. Mary Hoffman in a very pretty blue dress and picture hat opened the last scene of the style show with the song "My Alice Blue Gown." She was supported by a chorus of girls in gowns of various cuts and colors who displayed their outfits in true mannish fashion.

Mrs. W. Lewis, accompanied by Mrs. Walter Winn, closed the program with two very pleasing solos, "Wild Flowers," by Phillips, and "Arise by Dreams," by Bischoe. A short business meeting at which the same officers were re-elected for the next term closed the meeting.

Sends White Leghorn Chicks to Japan

F. W. James, of Beach road, a brother of William James, of Antioch, announced that he had sold to a Japanese, who came to his place to make the selection, two White Leghorns, a hen and a cock. They have been cooped and now are enroute to the Jap's estate in Japan. He has been living at Lake Wauwatosa, Wis., and came to the James place to view the species which Mr. James specializes in.

Going some, isn't it, to have chicks bought here sent way off to Japan.

Sues Carey Electric Co. for $25,000 Damages

John Hayden, who was treated in the Newell hospital at Burlington for electrical burns last summer, has started suit for $25,000 damages against the Carey Electric Co., of Wilmet, in the circuit court of Kenosha county. Hayden alleges in his complaint that on July 7, 1921, while an employee of the Camp Lake hotel he sought to remove a tall tree which had been blown over in a storm and was knocked unconscious by a live wire of high voltage which was entangled in the tree.

EMPLOYMENT FOR MILLIONS FROM PULVERIZED MOUNTAINS

Building Stimulates Local Prosperity—Materials Plentiful and Prices Down

(Copyright, 1922, by Ideal Estate News, Chicago.)

Next to farming, local prosperity depends upon building activity. The reason is plain. Building is the country's second largest industry. It employs millions of workers directly, millions to make the materials for building, and hundreds of thousands in lumbering, quarrying and mining.

Everyone knows that a building shortage exists. One way to restore prosperity then, is by actively resumption of building. Materials and labor now are plentiful. Costs are lower. Cement will serve as a good example because it goes into nearly all building.

For every ton of cement, 1 1/2 tons of raw materials and coal must be mined, shipped, assembled, dried, ground, weighed, mixed and then fused at about 3,000 degrees to a hard "clinker." This "clinker" must then be ground again, this time to a powder so fine that 75% will pass through a sieve having 40,000 holes per square inch. To make cement, one literally must "take down a mountain and put it through a sieve." And yet, cement sells at the mill for about $8.00 per ton! These facts caused the United States Geological Survey a few years ago to say that "one could not scrape the free sand from the gutter for much less cost per barrel."

Cement Competition Keen. That competition has been active is noted in government reports. According to the United States Geological Survey, the production of cement has steadily increased and the price declined. It shows that in 1890, cement sold at $9.00 a barrel average at the mill; in 1920 at $2.02; in 1921, at $1.87. Now it is selling at many large plants as low as $1.50 a barrel, only half the average price in 1890, and less than the average for the 30-year period covered in the government report.

At one of the country's largest cement plants the price now is 43 1/2% higher than in the pre-war year 1913. The latest report of the United States Department of Labor shows the average price of "all commodities" as 51% higher than 1913. "Some of the items whose prices enter into this figure of 51% have undergone radical decreases. While others are very much higher than the average of 51%. Few, if any, items of the former class enter into cement manufacturing costs, but several items of the latter class do affect the cement costs. In fact, the principal elements in these costs are labor, freight rates, coal and limestone.

In February, 1922, the cement plant referred to paid for its coal at times

Milk Producers to Hear Sapiro at Chicago Meet

A huge mass meeting of milk producers of the Chicago milk marketing district will be held at the LaSalle hotel, Chicago, next Tuesday afternoon, June 6. Aaron Sapiro, famous co-operative attorney, will give an address. The committee of nine announces that every farmer interested in the future of dairy marketing in the Chicago district is invited.

Mr. Sapiro aided in drawing up the new contract which has been approved by the committee representing the producers of the territory and which will go into effect on September 1, if 6,000 are signed by that time.

"The principal upon which we have been working," said Mr. Sapiro, "is that the producer is entitled to half the amount the consumer in Chicago pays for milk. He is at present getting only about thirty per cent."

Mr. Sapiro has organized forty-three producers' co-operative marketing companies, including the famous fruit co-operative in California. No co-operative that he has organized has failed.

At a meeting of the Kenosha County Old Settlers' club last Friday it was voted to open their picnic grounds at Paddock's lake for a tourist camp. All the old hitching posts will be removed and the old dining hall will be torn down. Other buildings will be repaired. The society will hold a Fourth of July celebration and have their annual reunion the last Thursday in August.

20 Years Ago in Antioch

Thursday, June 4, 1902

Robert Selter was a Monday morning passenger for Chicago.

Percy Chinn and wife of Kenosha were visitors at the home of his mother the latter part of last week.

Miss Maude Brogan of Kenosha, was home Decoration day and visited her parents and other Antioch friends.

Miss Elsie Williams of Chicago, was an over Sunday visitor at the home of her parents.

Ground is being broke and a wall laid next to Barney Nabor's harness store on Main street and the pool room will be moved thereon.

Olsen Camp No. 450 R. N. A. have been holding some very enjoyable meetings of late, the entertainment part of the meetings being exceptionally good, which reflects much credit on the committee having them in charge. Those who stay away from the regular meetings of the camp are missing a treat.

Friday night about 8 o'clock the six-year-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Somerville, who run a bakery in the opera house block, was kicked by a horse. The blow struck the little fellow squarely in the face, breaking in the upper jaw, which necessitated taking out several teeth. It was a close call from sudden death. The child is doing as well as could be expected under the circumstances.

Friday afternoon, May 30th, about 75 guests of both the Robekah and Odd Fellows lodges attended a social outing at Mr. Crowley's picnic grounds on Cross Lake, given by Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Van Patten.

Miss Doham's pupils will give the following program on the school lawn: Song—"We're On A Strike"..... Helen Hostetter Recitation—"Our May Queen"..... Helen Hostetter

Hoop Drill. May Day Play. May Pole Dance.

Plant Not to be Sold

The Milk Producers' Co-operative Marketing company has not sold the plant at Grayslake and has no intentions of selling it.

With the re-organization plans now under headway it is expected that at a later date the Grayslake plant will be completed and put in operation. In fact, officials of the company have stated that they would consider opening the plant in the near future if not less than 15,000 pounds of milk a day were signed up with the company for delivery at the plant.

With the extensive plans under headway for a new, larger and better Marketing company, there is every indication that in the comparatively near future when the new contracts are signed up in sufficient numbers, that the plants will be put in operation.

Grayslake Must Raise $5,000 for Highway

The department of highways has designated route 21 through Grayslake over the back of the Shaffer, Ed. Barron and Earl Barron farms. The department urges that the right-of-way be guaranteed, or a route further out of the village will have to be used. It is now up to the village of Grayslake to raise about $5,000 to guarantee this right-of-way. The only way it can be done, it is thought, is by a bond issue. The assessed valuation in the village is $110,021. To raise $5,000 it would cost 10.3 (three-tenths cents on the hundred dollars). Therefore if you have an amount of $2,000, and you pay one of this year share would be about $ for your entire part. If the amount is not raised the road would probably go farther west, possibly as far as Gage's corners.

Dr. Shaffer, as head of the village board states that he would do nothing in the way of calling a special election to approve or vote down a bond issue unless he was forced to do so by properly drawn up petitions by citizens of this village. He did not feel that he wanted the responsibility of asking the people to put up $5,000 for the right-of-way.

Miss Williams to Play at School Commencement

Miss Betsey Knowlton Williams, a well known Chicago pianist and cellist will take part in the Grade School commencement exercises on June 6, at the grade school.

Miss Williams is a member of the faculty of the Cosmopolitan School of Music, Chicago, where she teaches piano and violin. Miss Williams also enjoys the distinction of occupying the second chair with the cellists of Northwestern University Symphony Orchestra.

As an accompanist, Miss Williams is much in demand. Do not miss the opportunity of hearing this young artist.

Our Clerics. Little by little the Jesuits' stock in trade is being depleted through ostentatious display. An English professor now declares that people get sleepy during the sermon because they hypnotize themselves easily fixed at the preacher. It is not because they are inattentive, but because they are too attentive. Therefore, jokes on the subject are not knocks for the parson, but boosts.

YOUNG MOTHER NOW STRONG

Her Mother's Faith in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Led Her To Try It

Konosha, Wisconsin.—"I cannot say enough in praise of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. My mother had great faith in it, as she had taken so much of it and when I had trouble about my baby was born she gave it to me. It helped me so much more than anything else had done that I advise all women with female trouble to give it a fair trial and I am sure they will feel as I do about it.—Mrs. FRED P. HANSEN, 562 Symonds St., Konosha, Wisconsin.

A medicine that has been in use nearly fifty years and that receives the praise and commendation of mothers and grandmothers is worth your consideration.

If you are suffering from troubles that sometimes follow child-birth bear in mind that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a woman's medicine. It is especially adapted to correct such troubles.

The letters we publish ought to convince you; ask some of your women friends or neighbors—they know its worth. You will, too, if you give it a fair trial.

A Counter Proposal.
"Yes, sir, Mr. Morgan went right up to Martha's counter and asked her to marry him. Would you believe it?"

"Sort of counter-proposal, you might say," remarked the erudite floorwalker.

E. H. GARY WANTS U. S. SALES TAX

President of American Steel Institute Would Kill the Income Tax.

WANTS THE BONUS SHELVED

Urges Congress to Take Tariff Out of Business and Play No Favorites in Its Tendency to Regulate Things.

New York, May 20.—Elihu H. Gary, in his address as president of the American Iron and Steel Institute, in session at Hotel Commodore, advocated that congress take the tariff out of business; that it play no favorites in its tendency to regulate things; that it substitute a sales tax for the income tax, and that it forget the soldier bonus bill until the nation is less severely burdened financially.

As for the business future of America, Mr. Gary declared himself as "still an optimist." In the iron and steel industry, he said, the profits are not satisfactory, but few, if any, ought to be doing business at a loss.

"Pity the blind, deaf and foolish pessimists of the United States," he adjured members of the Institute.

In a remark which he said was inserted "as a tone of consolation and hope," the steel magnate asserted, "congressmen are like the ordinary run of individuals—most of them honest and well intentioned, but a few are possessed of less merit."

"We have not, I think, passed entirely from under the clouds of adversity," he said. "Certainly we are carrying hitherto unheard of heavy governmental financial burdens. At best these will not soon be fully discharged. To bear them gracefully and consistently there must be not only forbearance, encouragement and assistance from every department of government up to the limit of propriety and justice, but there must also be entertained by every individual, consistently and constantly, a spirit of patience, pluck, energy, generosity, loyalty and charity fully up to his or her intelligence."

The tariff question, he declared, should be delegated for investigation to "a committee of well-paid, high-minded, intelligent, competent and non-partisan appointees, authorized to ascertain and communicate the facts and figures."

"As between parties the main difference, as I see it, is that the Republican party has stood for a 'protective tariff' and the Democratic party for a 'tariff for revenue.' The settlement of this controversy should include both."

In a plea for impartial government control, where it is undertaken, he insisted that "all lines and departments of economic activity of similar importance should be subjected to the same treatment. There has been a disposition in recent years," he declared, "to pass laws which measurably exempt labor organizations, and recently farmer associations, from governmental investigations, supervision and control against wrong."

To permit such organizations to do, as the result of combination, things that are claimed to be beneficial to them which are denied to others is to create classes, to favor some and to injure the whole body politic, the steel magnate declared.

"The bonus question," he declared, "is not ripe for determination. Even though there may be two sides to the question as to whether or not a soldier who has escaped disability, physical and mental, should be paid, or ask payment of, a bonus, it would not be useful for us to consider or form opinions on the question at present."

"There has been considerable propaganda in behalf of the proposal," he continued. "Personalities and vituperative comment have been indulged in. Prejudices have been created. Because of this situation a feeling of unrest and resentment has arisen, and the effect upon the natural progress of efforts to return to the normal conditions of peace and industry has been depressing."

"Former soldiers, like all others, need opportunity to work; and continuously to furnish this chance, courage and capital should be given to industry. The load of taxation ought to be lightened, not increased. Enterprise has stagnated under this burden. It would not be difficult to break its back."

"These are not idle words. They are a solemn warning, not only to soldiers but to everyone who is at present asking what is neither reasonable nor patriotic."

Of taxation he said: "The fairest method is found in the sales tax, so called. It is the most easily, cheaply and certainly collected. It has been found in other countries to be practicable, satisfactory and successful."

5 DIE IN DEEP SHAFT

Workmen and Firemen Killed in Milwaukee Sewer.

Latter Lose Lives While Trying to Rescue Workers Overcome by Gas and Electricity.

Milwaukee, May 20.—Three city firemen and two tunnel workers were killed by gas and electricity at the bottom of a 52-foot shaft in the intercepting sewer system at National and Twentieth avenues.

Nearly a score of firemen were overcome by gas fumes and six seriously hurt.

The firemen were at the bottom of the shaft to rescue the tunnel workers, who had been overcome.

The first man into the shaft was John Schleck, a tunnel worker. Twenty minutes elapsed and he failed to return. Then a new man, now an unidentified corpse at the morgue, went down after Schleck to learn what was wrong.

An alarm was sent to the fire department. Mathias Wambach was the first man down the shaft. By this time Chief Murphy had arrived and immediately sounded a special call for truck companies with respirators and gas masks.

Fireman Wambach went down with a gas mask. Behind him was Anton Krafchek. They were down five minutes before scores of other firemen followed into the shaft under the direction of Chiefs Peterson, Murphy and Captain Hendricks.

RENEW FIGHTING IN ULSTER

Shipyard Workers Attacked and Trained Bombed—Protestant School Burned.

London, May 25.—Fighting was again renewed in Belfast when shipyard workers on their way home from work were attacked in the center of the city. Two train cars were bombed, resulting in the death of one man. Nineteen persons were taken to hospitals, some of them seriously injured.

After half an hour of machine gun, rifle and revolver fire and the use of several bombs, the assaults were dispersed.

In the Falls Road area, a grave digger who was walking to his home was shot dead. A bomb was thrown into the office of a signaling mill. A Protestant school was burned.

Guerrilla war is proceeding in the whole of six counties. A detachment of special police returning to Ballymena after a drive over North Antrim mountains where they raided several houses, were ambushed. In the fight which resulted, two men were shot dead and one special was wounded.

Specials seized a quantity of arms and ammunition and recovered an automobile which had been seized last Friday. A bridge was blown up at Dallymena.

FREIGHT RATES SLASHED BY U. S.

Interstate Commerce Body Orders Reduction Averaging About 10 Per Cent.

ARE EFFECTIVE ON JULY 1

Commission Holds Nation's Railroads Are Entitled to Earn 5 1/2 Per Cent on the Value of Their Property Instead of 6 Per Cent.

Washington, May 20.—Reduction in freight rates averaging about 10 per cent was ordered by the Interstate Commerce commission in a decision resulting from its inquiry into the general rate structure of the nation.

The cut in rates was fixed by the commission at 14 per cent in eastern territory; 13 1/2 per cent in western territory; and 12 1/2 per cent in southern and Mountain-Pacific territories. All reductions ordered are effective July 1 and constitute a greater cut than was generally expected.

The scaling discrepancy in the rail rate cuts is due to the fact that the new rates do not cover all articles; the new average, however, will be 10 per cent lower.

The commission in ordering the decreases—which are on a horizontal basis—held that the nation's railroads are entitled to earn 5 1/2 per cent on the value of their property rather than the approximate 6 per cent fixed as a reasonable return under the transportation act of 1920.

Transportation charges on passenger and Pullman travel were left unaffected by this decision.

Agricultural products will not be affected by the reduction granted under the commission's order. The reduction of 10 1/2 per cent made in the western hay and grain rates last fall and the voluntary 10 per cent cut made in all agricultural products by railroads January 1 will be substituted for the decision on these commodities.

The order of the commission fixing the new level of rates defined the percentage of reduction as follows:

"In the eastern group, also between points in Illinois territory and between Illinois territory and the eastern group, 20 per cent instead of the 40 per cent authorized in the decisions last elted (the rate increases of 1920).

"In the western group and between the western group and Illinois territory 21 1/2 per cent instead of the 35 per cent so authorized.

"In the southern and Mountain-Pacific groups, 12 1/2 per cent instead of the 25 per cent so authorized.

"On inter-territorial traffic except as otherwise provided herein 20 per cent instead of the 33 1/3 per cent so authorized."

SAYS BUSINESS IS BETTER

Secretary of Labor Declares Practically No Idle Workmen Can Be Found in New York.

Washington, May 27.—A picture of steadily reviving business activity throughout the country is drawn by Secretary Davis in a statement based on reports of employment conditions to the Department of Labor.

The reports indicated that unemployment had been "practically eliminated" in New York state, the secretary said; that it has been reduced more than 50 per cent in the last three months in Pennsylvania, while the "slogan song of business depression has given way to a cheerful note of improved industrial activity" in Illinois, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa, Michigan, Kansas and Missouri.

There is "unmistakable evidence" of improved industrial conditions prevailing on the Pacific coast, Mr. Davis said, while in the South the reports show steady improvement in Georgia, Tennessee and Alabama and practically no unemployment now exists in North Carolina.

McCumber also announced that he will call the entire committee together some day this week to discuss the soldier bonus legislation.

The senior class play, "It Pays to Advertise," was given last Thursday and Friday nights in the M. W. A. hall in Wilmot. A most excellent performance was given by the cast, who, under the direction of their coach, Bernice Kertendick, succeeded in putting on one of the most difficult plays ever given here. It would be hard to pick the stars of the cast because every character was played well and each character was just suited to his or her part. The proceeds of the play will be given towards the new gymnasium.

The sixth annual reunion of the graduates of the U. F. high school and their friends was held at the Camp Lake hotel Saturday night. A very good representation of each class was present to welcome the members of the class of 1922 into the organization. Attorney Blim, of Chicago, was introduced as toastmaster of the evening by the president of the association, Albert Schenning, of Silverlake. Mr. Schenning gave a short talk first in which he welcomed the new class and the assembled guests and then a short resume of the previous graduating class and their history for the past year. Mr. Blim then took charge and with many a merry reference to happenings of the past, he introduced the speakers of the evening. Appropriate talks were given by Clarence Wright, Fred Hanneman, Prin. R. S. Ihlenfeldt. The class response of 1922 was given by Clayton Stockwell, and a letter from Prof. Anton Minsart, the first principal of the school, was read by Grace Carey.

During the banquet Rowell's orchestra played and Miss Genevieve Fullum, of Kenosha, accompanied by Mrs. Ihlenfeldt, favored the assembly with several very charming songs.

At the business meeting which followed these officers for the coming year were elected: President, Vera Hegeman; vice president, Grace Carey; secretary, Georgia Bruel; treasurer, Elmer Schmalfeldt; committee, Mrs. Bassett, Ermie Carey and Gladys Kerkhoff.

The Wilmot schools will close for this year on Thursday. A list of the teachers for the coming year will be published later.

Miss Jamison's contribution to the program was not only original and attractive but showed that her pupils had learned much that will be of worth while value to them after their school years.

Miss Hope's number "Ruben & Rachel," a group of four little girls and four little boys, was well carried out and a decided success. Four boys from her room gave a dialogue and the Memorial day, preceding the memorial exercises put on by the primary department. The children entered into the spirit of the act and carried it out with unusual impressiveness. Peterkins and Polly by Ruth Pacey and Ruth Stoxen was a decided hit. Mrs. R. Phillips gave two readings, "Elder Lamb's Donation Party" and "The Wife of All Kinds of Work." Mrs. Phillips' readings are always very popular and these were exceptionally good.

The manual training exhibit of the high school and grade boys in the basement of the hall was excellent. Among the pieces that were very noticeable were several self feeders for chickens, several library tables and pedestals and numerous other articles that made a most creditable showing. The grade girls had their exhibit of sewing in this department also, and there was excellent workmanship exhibited in this department.

The annual graduation exercises of the U. F. high school will be held at the M. W. A. hall Wednesday night, May 31. Prof. C. Barr, of the Milwaukee normal, has been secured to give the evening's address and Attorney Henry Blim, a graduate of the class of 1905, is to be present for the occasion and has consented to appear on the program. The boys have worked hard and faithfully and we wish them success.

"Peacock Alley" Is Gorgeous Production

It is not often that motion picture fans are given the opportunity to see the latest and most stylish costumes presented by one of the most attractive artists of the screen in a story vibrant with romance and adventure, but that is what Mae Murray's latest picture, "Peacock Alley," is. It will be shown Friday and Saturday at the Crystal.

Whitsunday at St. Ignatius

Next Sunday, June 4, and Whitsunday, there will be special services at St. Ignatius' church. Whitsunday is the greatest feast of the Christian church next to Christmas and for that reason is observed accordingly.

In St. Ignatius' church there will be Choral morning prayer and a special song. Mr. Fred Fuller, of Chicago, will preside at the organ and Miss Flora Churchill, of Libertyville, will sing. The whole service will be choral and the solo will take place at the offertory.

Everyone is invited to attend this service and all will be welcome.

Remember that the church school session now begins at 8:45 in the morning and the service at 10, so that everything will be over by 11.

Under a Microscope

Although nearly every flower presents new beauties of detail when viewed through a microscope, not every one resembles the illustration to some far Eastern wonder tale, as does the swampy saxifrage. Anything but lovely at first unmingled glance, this humble flower proves fascinating when seen through a lens. Instead of resembling a cushion stuck full of red-headed pins and decked with knots of ribbon, the microscope view makes one think of an elaborate gown ornamented with filigree work, carving and exquisite bits of sculpture, the whole structure expressed in miniature floral form.

How Many Stars?

We think of the multitude of stars and would in all probability say that on a clear, frosty, moonless night we see millions of them. In reality, on such a night, if we leave out the faintly luminous milky way, we see fewer than 3,000 distinct stars. In the whole starry sphere, of which we see only half of any given time, there are only a score of first-magnitude stars, beginning with Sirius, the brightest of them, and including stars like Orion's right shoulder and left knee, Betelgeuse and Rigel, Vega and Arcturus.

Some Risk in Everything

While it may be true that the man who risks nothing gains nothing, it is also true that gain does not depend on risk alone. In all business there is an element of risk, but in business this element is smaller than it is in speculation.

The KITCHEN CABINET

Let not him (who is homeless pull down the house of another, but let him build a better one for himself. — Abraham Lincoln.

THE DAILY MEAL

An unusual way of serving potatoes provided by the following recipe:

Potato Timbales.—Wash and boil potatoes with their jackets on in boiling water well salted. Cool and peel. Chop and season with salt and pepper and moisten with cream. Brush timbale molds generously with butter and sprinkle with soft breadcrumbs, using some of the crusts. Pack into the mold, the potato mixture, place in a dish and put into a hot oven until the crumbs are well browned. Remove to a serving dish and garnish with sprigs of parsley.

Imperial Salad.—Wash scraps and chop celery to measure one-half of a cupful. Add an equal measure of chopped pineapple. Soak one and one-fourth tablespoonfuls of gelatin in one-fourth of a cupful of cold water five minutes and dissolve in one-fourth of a cupful of boiling water. Strain and add to the first mixture, then add one-fourth cupful each of vinegar and sugar, two-thirds of a cupful of canned pineapple syrup and one tablespoonful of lemon juice with a few grains of salt. Turn into individual molds dipped in cold water and chill thoroughly. Remove from the molds to nests of crisp lettuce and accompany with mayonnaise dressing.

Fruit Salad Dressing.—Beat two eggs until very light, add gradually three tablespoonfuls of melted butter, beating well, three tablespoonfuls of lemon juice and one-half teaspoonful of salt. Cook over hot water, stirring constantly until it thickens. Add one cupful of heavy cream beaten stiff, one-fourth of a cupful of powdered sugar, one-half teaspoonful each of celery salt, vanilla and a few dashes of cayenne, three drops of onion juice and one-fourth of a teaspoonful of paprika. Chill thoroughly.

Somerset Sandwiches.—Mix one-half cupful of canned shrimp, one-half cupful of cold cooked chicken livers, one-half red pepper and one-half of a Bermuda onion, both chopped. Force through a meat chopper. Season with salt and pepper, moisten with mayonnaise and spread on thin slices of buttered bread. Cut in fancy shapes.

A great philosopher once said, "Let me eat of their bread and I'll forecast their future."

How true it is that not only our physical being, but our very dispositions are built from the food which we eat.

We get our sustenance as well as no small part of life's pleasure from eating.

There is more food value and more real tasty pleasure in wheat flour products than in any other human food.

There are also some distressing disappointments that result from wheat flour. If you would avoid the risk of baking failures use Antioch Best Flour.

It always makes good because it bakes good, bread, cakes and pies.

Ascribed to Unknown Race.

Pits or shallow wells for the collection of oil were found in the United States by the earliest explorers, and are believed to have been the work of that race which lived here before the Indians came from Asia or Northern Africa, or wherever they did come from. The belief is that these pits for oil were dug by those unknown and unaccountable people who built mounds in the Ohio and Mississippi valleys, worked lead ores in Kentucky and mined copper in the Lake Superior region.

Why Should He Be Surprised?

Culture will crop out. A Boston golf player writes to the Outlook telling how his caddy gave him a bit of a surprise. The golfer had played his ball into the rough, and they had about given it up for lost, when suddenly the youngster's eye lit upon it. Did he holter, ungrammatically? "I got it, mister?" Not this lad. Raising the ball aloft, he exclaimed triumphantly: "Mirabile dictu—it's found!" —Boston Transcript.

The Light That Didn't Fall.

From out of Maryville comes the story of a light that didn't fall. The Tribune reports that when a large negro was taken before a judge charged with the crime of carrying a half brick concealed about his person, he got off scotfree when he explained that he merely wore it to light his matches on when he wanted to smoke. —Missouri Notes, Kansas City Times.

Bowling is Old Diversion.

Bowling once was forbidden by law. The game was originally nine-pins, and was called "cloche," the definition being given as: "Cloche, the game at nine-pins; forbidden by statute, anno 17 Edw. IV." The prohibition was afterward withdrawn and the game became very popular. It was once also a popular gambling game in the United States and in some states was prohibited by law. The law was evaded by adding another pin and calling it ten-pins.

It was a great meeting at Grayslake. Great men told of the great achievements of the church in many lines.

It was revealed anew that the centenary money is changing the very heart of the world.

Now plans are revolutionizing the work in many lines.

Consolidated churches, something after the fashion of the consolidated schools are coming into existence. The people, old and young, are being brought to town to church by auto busses as the school children are brought to school. Why not in Antioch?

Word just received from headquarters is "The lists of titheers is steadily on the increase."

No one can hear and really give attention to the accounts of what Centenary money is doing without a glow of patriotic joy—provided he has a share in it. One man in a little country church in New York state made a good subscription for his means. Then he got to hearing about what was being done, and studying about it. He surprised his pastor one day by bringing him two Liberty bonds each $2,500, and handed him $1,000 in cash besides. He kept on studying what such investments mean. Soon he brought the pastor $6,000 more for the glorious work. Then he got to studying the problem of the rural church, found what splendid things are being done in country communities with the new plans of the board of Home Missions, and saw that his own community could be transformed if the money were at hand. It was soon at hand. He laid down $3,000 immediately for the work in his own community. It is absolutely safe to say that that man could not have invested his money any where to bring larger returns.

The memorial services at the church last Sunday morning were very well attended and full of patriotic inspiration and religious fervor. The key note of all was loyalty that is ready to work, to fight, to die, to sacrifice for country and for God. It was shown that all our physical wars are just campaigns in the greater war of principles and spiritual destinies, and the goal is final victory over all evil. It was pointed out that our heroes will have died in vain unless we who survive are good soldiers to win for God in every line here and now. The sextet was most highly appreciated. The coming Sunday we shall have with us, morning and evening, the Rev. B. O. Peterson, from the Philippine Islands. He has been a district superintendent there for many years, and his lectures are full of the most interesting stories. The evening lecture will be illustrated with the very best of slides.

The communion service has been postponed to a later date.

The change of church hours set forth in last week's paper was for St. Ignatius Episcopal church, not for the Methodist church. The Methodist services have not changed time.

Tired, overworked, run-down men and women find in Tanlac just what they need to regain health and strength. S. H. Reeves.

Farmer as "Fighting Man." The man who would succeed at farming must be a fighter from start to finish. He must fight bugs, and worms, and caterpillars and flies. He must fight loss of time, depreciation of soil, fire, flood, drought and thieves that prey on grain, fruit and vegetables. He must fight greed and graft, wickedness in a thousand forms; and the fiercest battles he ever wages are those against self.—Farm Journal.

Good Plot Everything.

A plot, after all, is a design to which everything else must be subordinated. If the reader's attention is to be enticed and entrained, the life must not conform to this design, and the psychologist may despise it, yet there is no such thing as a good novel that has not a good plot.—Francis Ince.

Edgar County to Celebrate
Edgar county has made more complete work of eradicating tuberculosis than any other county in the state.

More than 2,000 herds have completed the initial tests. Ninety-five per cent of the cattle, including single family cows, beef herds, and everything kept for milk and dairy herds and everything kept for milk and breeding purposes in the county have been or are now being tested.

A big celebration will be held in Paris, Illinois, on May 26 in honor of the occasion.

Mr. Kiernan, Chief of Division of Tuberculosis, Eradication, Dr. J. J. Lintner, head of the work in Illinois, and Prof. Smith, of the Livestock Commission are to be present.

One interesting part of the program will be a demonstration on a T. B. steer and a T. B. hog.

This achievement in Edgar county shows what can be done when the proposition is taken up by a county or community.

Investigation is showing tuberculosis to be even more contagious than was at first believed. This fact shows the need of a complete clean up in order to prevent clean herds from becoming reinfected.

Farm Bureau Story in Pageant Form

Big preparation is being made for the pageant at DeKalb on June 30. The stage in the open and surrounded by a semi-circular hill which makes a natural seating space for the audience. The stage is large enough to accommodate vehicles of various kinds as well as large groups of people who will represent in some way, either by costumes, group arrangement or demonstration, some of the work undertaken and accomplished by Farm Bureau, the Illinois Agricultural Association and American Farm Bureau Federation.

Lake county will be represented by one or two groups besides a float in the procession or parade as the circus boy would name it.

The following are a few of the things to be portrayed at the pageant: Methods of soil improvement, uses of sweet clover and other legumes, poultry culling, cow testing, T. B. eradication, bull associations, wool pool, spray rings, marketing associations, Farmers' institute, seed selection and dozens of other projects that have been fostered and encouraged by the Farm Bureau. Choruses, band music and daylight pictures will furnish part of the entertainment.

It is a history of the accomplishment of farm organization portrayed in a striking way by real farm folks.

The Next Thing is Spraying

This copy of the "Farmer" may reach you a little late for any suggestions about the calyx spray. It is several days after the petals fall before the calyx or open end of the blossom closes entirely.

If the spray has not been applied due to the rush of other work or unfavorable weather examine the newly formed apples and if the blossom end is still open give them a spraying of powdered lead arsenate one pound, and lime sulphur four pounds to fifty gallons of water. Go over the trees again three weeks after the petals fall with the same solution.

A large number of our fruit trees have received good care so far this season. Continue the good treatment through the summer and we will have some home grown apples better than we can buy to store in the cellar next winter besides some to show at the fair.

Township Exhibits at the Fair

We are planning a Farm Bureau tent for the fair this year in which each township will have a booth in which to display fruit, vegetables, grain and in fact anything but livestock.

The exhibit will be arranged in any way the committees from the townships may choose. The decoration of the booth and originality in arranging the display will count toward the prizes. Perhaps some novel idea might be worked out aside from a display of farm produce.

Premiums will be given in cups and ribbons.
Begin planning now what you can bring to help make your township exhibit the best.

Good Records at the Dixon Plant

Twelve of the sixteen Holstein cows at the Dixon testing plant are reported on the April producing sheet. The other four had not freshened at that date.

The second, third and fourth highest butter record for the month goes to Lake county Holsteins.

Princessa Vovio Colantha owned by H. K. Voss made 110.31 pounds butter. The new record is so close as to be nearly a tie. It was owned by O. F. C. Chicago Pietje owned by Lloyd Ritzenthaler. This cow made 110.27 pounds of butter, only .04 less than the next highest. These two cows are within 50 pounds of the same weight.

The fourth highest at the plant is Evelyn DeKol Korndyke Pontiac owned by Geo. White. She produced 109.24 pounds of butter. This cow was highest at the plant in milk production for April the amount being 2,800.9 pounds of milk. Mercedes Belle Pot Pontiac owned by Rousso Bros. has 98.68 pounds of butter to her record from 1899.5 pounds of milk showing an exceptionally high test. Menoka DeKol Sadio Vale, a junior 2 owned by M. H. Peterson has 85.81 pounds of butter from 1835.4 pounds milk. Ruby Spot Prilly, owned by Earl Kane, has a high test showing 98.72 pounds of butter from 2,265.6 pounds of milk.

Tillie Greenwood Rag Apple, a junior 3 owned by A. J. Stahl, has 84.36 pounds butter from 1,996.6 pounds of milk. Wilwood Bessie Bee, owned by E. F. Clark, produced 2,322.5 pounds milk making 98.61 pounds of butter. Floy Bonibel Pieterse owned by Clement Bros., Area, has 87.61 pounds of butter and 2,433.5 pounds milk. Frank Fowler, of Lake Villa, has three cows at the plant and A. Lindskog, Gurnee, has one. These four were not producing during April.

For Ten Dollars and Ninety Cents—This 30 x 3½ Usco

THE 30 x 3½ tire situation today is just this—

The man who buys an USCO at $10.90 is justified in believing that his money is going farther in tire value than it ever has gone or could go before.

Naturally he appreciates the quality of USCO. That was established long ago.

It is still fresh in his mind that USCO led the national market into the $10.90 price range.

The makers of U. S. Tires always intended the 30 x 3½ USCO to be the highest value in its field.

At $10.90 it creates a new classification of money's worth.

He Got His Answer.

A local candidate, who has been vigorously slumping the county, in view of the coming primary, got a put answer at one place at which he called, seeking votes. After looking around he could see nobody but a future voter of the recently enfranchised sex, but when he left he realized that the "female of the species is more deadly than the male" at repartee. "Where is you pa, missy?" he inquired in ingratiating manner. "He's burying the dog, mister" was the reply. "Why, what happened to the dog?" said the sympathetic candidate. "He barked himself to death, barking at candidates" was the unsympathetic answer.

Of Course He Didn't.

A rural minister was bothered by the postman not only reading his postcards, but communicating their intimacies to others. One day he wrote a postcard to the other end of the village. It read, "I will tell you more, only I know the postman will read it." Then he put the card in the letter box, whence it was collected and taken to the post office and sent out for delivery. The postman stamped into the doctor's office with the card, threw it on the table and exclaimed angrily, "He's a liar! I don't read 'em."

Justifiable.

Ramsey Milholland

By BOOTH TARKINGTON

Copyright by Doubleday, Page & Company

HIS FIRST LOVE.

Synopsis.—With his grandfather, small Ramsey Milholland is watching the "Decoration Day Parade" in the home town. The old gentleman, a veteran of the Civil war, endeavors to impress the youngster with the significance of the great conflict, and many years afterward Ramsey is not distinguished for remarkable ability, though his pronounced dislikes are arithmetic, "Boottalene" and German. In sharp contrast to Ramsey's backwardness is the precocity of little Dora Yocum, a young lady whom in his bitterness he denominated "Teacher's Pet." In high school, where he and Dora are classmates, Ramsey continues to feel that the girl delights to manifest her superiority, and the vindictiveness he contrives becomes alarming, culminating in the resolution that some day he will "show" her. At a class picnic Ramsey, to his embarrassment, appears to attract the favorable attention of Miss Milla Rust, a young lady of about his own age and the acknowledged belle of the class.

"I don't see it," he murmured huskily, afraid that she might remove her hand. "I can't see any fish, Milla."

She leaned further out over the bank. "Why, there, goosie!" she whispered. "Right there."

"I can't see it!" She leaned still further, bending down to point. "Why, right there!"

At this moment she removed her hand from his shoulder, though unwillingly. She clutched at him, in fact, but without avail. She had been too amiable.

A loud shriek was uttered by throats able to vocalize, just then, than Milla's, for in her great surprise she said nothing whatever—the shriek came from the other girls as Milla left the crest of the overhanging bank and almost horizontally disappeared into the brown water. There was a tumultuous splash, and then of Milla Rust had her well-known beauty there was nothing visible in the superficial world, nor upon the surface of that creek. The vanishment was total.

"Save her!" Several girls afterward admitted having used this expression, and little Miss Floy Williams, the youngest and smallest member of the class, was unable to deny that she had said, "Oh, God!" Nothing could have been more natural, and the matter need not have been brought before her with such insistence and frequency, during the two remaining years of her undergraduate career.

Ramsey was one of those who heard this explanation, later so famous, and perhaps it was what roused him to heroism. He dived from the bank, headlong, and the strange thought in his mind was "I guess this'll show Dora Yocum!" He should have been thinking of Milla, of course; at such a time, particularly after the little enchantment just laid upon him by Milla's touch and Milla's curls; and he knew well enough that Miss Yocum was not among the spectators.

Ramsey struck the water hard, and in the same instant struck something else harder. Wesley Bender's bundle of books had given him no such shock as he received now, and if the creek bottom had not been of mud, just there, the top of his young head might have decelerated the strain. Half stunned, choking, spluttering, he somehow floundered to his feet; and when he could get his eyes a little cleared of water he found himself wavering face to face with a blurred vision of Milla Rust. She had risen up out of the pool and stood knee deep, like a lovely drowned figure in a fountain.

Upon the bank above them, Willis Parker was jumping up and down, gesticulating and shouting fiercely. "Now I guess you're satisfied our fishin' is spottin'! Why'n't you listen me? I told you it wasn't more'n three foot deep! I and Hehnie waded all over this creek gettin' our bait. You're a pretty sight!"

Of Milla he spoke unwittingly the literal truth. Even with her hair thus wild and sudden, Milla rose from immersion blushing and prettier than ever; and she was prettier of all when she stretched out her hand helplessly to Ramsey and he led her up out of the waters. They had plenty of assistance to scramble to the top of the bank, and there Milla was surrounded and borne away with a great clacketing and tumult. Ramsey sat upon the grass in the sun, rubbed his head, and experimented with his neck to see if it would "work." The sunshine was strong and hot; in half an hour he and his clothes were dry—or at least "dry enough," as he said, and except for some soreness of head and neck, and the general crumpledness of his apparel, he seemed to be in all ways much as usual, when shouts and whistlings summoned all the party to luncheon at the rendezvous. The change that made him different was invisible.

Yet something must have been seen, for everyone appeared to take it for granted that he was to sit next to Milla at the pastoral meal. She herself understood it, evidently, for she drew in her pucker skirts and withdrew any words made a place for him beside her as he driftingly approached her, affecting to whistle and keeping his eyes on the foliage overhead. He still looked upward, even in the act of sitting down.

"Squirrel or something," he said feebly, as if in explanation.

"Where?" Milla asked.

"Up there on a branch." He accepted a plate from her (she had provided herself with an extra one), but he did not look at it or at her. He continued to keep his eyes aloft, because he imagined that all of the class were looking at him and Milla, and he felt unable to meet such publicity. It was to him as if the whole United States had been scandalized to attention by this act of his in going to sit beside Milla; he gazed upward so long that his eye-balls became sensitive under the strain. He began to blink. "I can't make out whether it's a squirrel or just some lonesome that kind of got fixed like one," he said. "I can't make out yet which it is, but I guess when there's a breeze, if it's a squirrel he'll probably hop around some then, if he's alive or anything."

It had begun to seem that his eyes must remain fixed in that upward stare forever; he wanted to bring them down, but could not face the glare of the world. But finally the brightness of the sky between the leaves settled matters for him; he sneezed, wept, and for a little moment again faced his fellowmen. No one was looking at him; everybody except Milla had other things to do.

Having sneezed involuntarily, he added a spell of coughing for which there was no necessity. "I guess I must be wrong," he muttered thickly. "What about it, Ramsey?" "About it's been a squirrel." With infinite timidity he turned his head and encountered a gaze so soft, so hallowed, that it disconnected him, and he dropped a "squirrel" of fried chicken, well dotted with nuts, from his plate. Scarcely he picked it up, but did not eat it. For the first time in his life he felt that eating fried chicken held in the fingers was not to be thought of. He replaced the "squirrel" upon his plate and allowed it to remain there untouched, in spite of a great hunger for it.

Having looked down, he now found difficulty in looking up, but gazed steadily at his plate, and into this limited circle of vision came Milla's delicate and rosy fingers, bearing a gift. "There," she said in a motherly little voice. "It's a tomato mayonnaise sandwich and I made it myself. I want you to eat it, Ramsey."

His own fingers approached tremulously as he accepted the thick sandwich from her and conveyed it to his mouth. A moment later his soul-filled mouth, for a spurt of mayonnaise dressing had caused a catastrophic scene of which occupied no inconsiderable area of his right cheek, which was the cheek toward Milla. He groined wretchedly for his handkerchief but could not find it; he had lost it. Sudden death would have been relief; he was sure that after such grotesque Milla could never bear to have anything more to do with him; he was ruined.

In his anguish he felt a paper napkin pressed gently into his hand; a soft voice said in his ear, "Wipe it off with this, Ramsey. Nobody's noticing."

So this incredibly charitable creature was still able to be his friend, even after seeing him mayonnaised! Humbly marveling, he did as she told him, but avoided all further risks. He ate nothing more.

He sighed his first sigh of inexpressible happiness, had a chill or so along the spine, and at intervals his brow was bedewed.

Within his averted eyes there dwelt not the Milla Rust who sat beside him, but an iridescent, fragile creature who had become angelic.

He spent the rest of the day dwelling helplessly about her; wherever she went he was near, as near as possible, but of no deliberate volition of his own. Something seemed to tie him to her, and Milla was nothing loth. He seldom looked at her directly, or for longer than an instant, and more rarely still did he speak to her except as a reply. What few remarks he ventured upon his own initiative nearly all concerned the landscape, which he commented repeatedly in a weak voice, as "kind of pretty," though once he said he guessed there might be bugs in the bark of a log on which they sat; and he became so immediately personal as to declare that if the bugs had to get on anybody he'd rather they got on him than on Milla. She said that was "just perfectly lovely" of him, asked where he got his sweet nature, and in other ways encouraged him to continue the revelation, but Ramsey was unable to get forward with it, though he opened and closed his mouth a great many times in the effort to do so.

At five o'clock everybody was summoned again to the rendezvous for a ceremony preliminary to departure; the class found itself in a large circle, standing, and sang "The Star Spangled Banner." Ordinarily, on such an open-air and out-of-school occasion, Ramsey would have joined the chorus unproriously with the utmost bluntness of which his vocal apparatus was capable; and most of the other boys expressed their humor by drowning out the serious efforts of the girls; but he sang feebly, not much more than humming through his teeth. Standing beside Milla, he was incapable of his former inelegances and his voice was in a semi-paralyzed condition, like the rest of him.

Opposite him, across the circle, Dora Yocum stood a little in advance of those near her, for of course she led the singing. Her clear and earnest voice was distinguishable from all others, and though she did not glance toward Ramsey he had a queer feeling that she was assuming more superiority than ever, and that she was letting scornful of him and Milla. The old resentment rose—he'd "show" that girl yet, some day!

When the song was over, cheers were given for the class, "the good old class of Nineteen Fourteen," the school, the teachers, and for the picnic, thus officially concluded; and then the picnicers, carrying their baskets and faded wild flowers and other souvenirs and burdens, moved toward the big "express wagons" which were to take them back into the town. Ramsey got his guitar case, and turned to Milla.

"Well—good-bye." "Why, no," said Milla. "Anyway, not yet. You can go back in the same wagon with me. It's going to stop at the school and let us all out there, and then you could walk home with me if you felt like it."

"Well—well, I'd be perfectly willing," Ramsey said. "Only I heard we all had to go back in whatever wagon we came out in; and I didn't come in the same one with you, so—"

Milla laughed and looked toward him a little. "I already tended to that," she said confidentially. "I asked Johnnie Pliske, that came out in my wagon, to go back in yours, so that makes room for you."

"Well—then I guess I could do it." He moved toward the wagon with her. "I expect it don't make much difference one way or the other."

"And you can carry my basket if you want to," she said, adding solicitously, "unless it's too heavy when you already got your guitar case to carry, Ramsey."

This thoughtfulness of hers almost overcame him; she seemed divine. "I—I'll be glad to carry the basket, too," he faltered. "It—it don't weigh anything much."

"Well, let's hurry, so's we can get places together." Then, as she maneuvered him through the little crowd about the wagon, with a soft push this way and a gentle pull that, and hurried him up the improvised steps and found a place where there was room for them both to sit, Ramsey had another breathless sensation heretofore unknown to him. He found himself taken under a day-like protectorship; a wonderful, inexpressible Being seemed to have become his proprietor.

"Isn't this just perfectly lovely?" she said cozily, close to his ear. He swallowed, but found no words, for he had no thoughts; he was only an incoherent tumult. This was his first love.

"Isn't it, Ramsey?" she urged. The cozy voice had just the hint of a reproach. "Don't you think it's just perfectly lovely, Ramsey?"

"Yes'm."

The acquaintance progresses, Ramsey and Milla openly "keeping company."

GROWTH OF STRAWBERRY INDUSTRY
DUE TO INTELLIGENT MARKETING

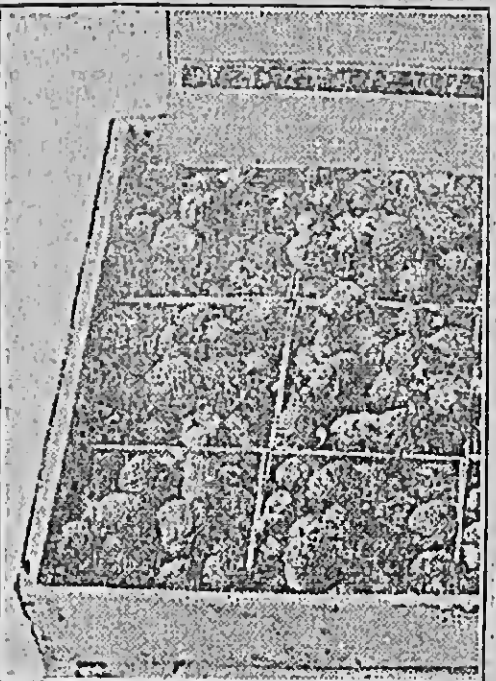

Paper Labels for Special Shipments.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Within six years Louisiana has taken first place among the states as regards value of strawberry production. The 1921 season was the best ever known in the industry, 1,400 carloads of Louisiana berries being marketed in 74 cities in the United States and Canada. In Chicago the 24-pint crates brought as much as $0.50 each, and during practically the entire marketing season Louisiana strawberries sold at a higher price than any other berries on the market, due to the high quality of the product.

With such a record of achievement, much interest centers in the opening of the 1922 marketing season. As heretofore a field station of the United States Department of Agriculture will be maintained in the Hammond district during the season to keep producers and shippers informed daily of the principal consuming markets, prevailing prices, carlot shipments from competing areas, and other marketing data essential in the scientific marketing of agricultural products, and granted favorable conditions the 1922 season should surpass even the 1921 record.

Nation-Wide Distribution. The Louisiana strawberry industry is of national importance. The crop has nation-wide distribution, the carlot shipments spreading out like a fan from the Atlantic coast to the Rocky mountains. Last year 29 carloads also went to four cities in Canada. Chicago is the principal market for the fruit, Detroit, Boston, Pittsburgh and New York ranking next in the order given. Heat, cold and distance—marketing obstacles that seemed insurmountable a few years ago—have been overcome by the growers and shippers, and with continued careful selection, grading, packing and shipping, marketing experts say that the industry will enjoy increasing prosperity.

During the early years of the strawberry industry in Louisiana several varieties of berries were grown, and Chicago was the main market outlet. Today the Klondike variety is grown exclusively, and Louisiana strawberries have a wider distribution than the strawberries from any other section of the country. The quality of the fruit is dependable, and there is everywhere a demand for the berries. When picked the berries are carried to packing sheds, where practically each one is handled separately. Both the 24-pint Hollock crates and the 24-pint ventilated crates have been used in picking the fruit, although during the past few seasons there has been a considerable decrease in the use of Hollock's crates, which are known locally as "collar" crates. Practically all growers are now using ventilated crates, as berries shipped in such containers arrive at market in sound condition and usually command a premium over the price paid for berries in non-ventilated crates.

Trains of Strawberries.

Fully 90 per cent of the marketed crop is shipped by express; the railroad company providing two or three express fruit trains daily. These trains run on a schedule of 40 miles an hour, which puts the fruit on the Chicago market before daylight the second morning. Less than carload shipments are cared for by the express company, which operates local feed cars to pick up small shipments. The growers have good transportation facilities, deliveries are prompt, and few instances are known where cars have not arrived at destination on time. Strawberry buyers from the large consuming markets establish headquarters at Hammond during the marketing season, sales being made on a cash f.o.b. shipping point basis. The fruit is inspected at shipping point and acceptance taken before the cars move. At Pontchartraine all cars are sold at public auction.

Several strawberry preserving plants in the district utilize overripe and soft stock in the preparation of fruit for the ice cream and soda fountain trade in northern cities.

Perhaps the principal reason for the prosperity enjoyed by Louisiana's berry growers is that they keep themselves closely informed upon day-to-day market conditions. The producers appreciate that "knowing the markets" enables them to meet the consumers' desires as regards quality and quantity, and that to overstock one market when another market is undersupplied is unsound from both an economic and financial viewpoint. Every day during the marketing season a daily report of conditions and prices at the principal marketing centers throughout the country is issued by the local representative of the United States Department of Agriculture. This information is obtained by trained market reporters at consuming points.

The growers are also informed as to daily carlot shipments everywhere in the United States. Thus the producers not only know the prices being paid for berries at the various consuming markets, but exactly what competition may be expected from other sections shipping strawberries at about the same time. The department also furnishes daily information regarding temperature and weather conditions, so that the necessary icing and refrigeration can be provided for the shipments.

Information for Growers.

The department's station at Hammond was opened in 1916, and was the first field station established anywhere by the United States Department of Agriculture for the issuance of market news reports. Here, in the heart of Louisiana's strawberry producing district, arrangements were first made to study methods of packing, shipping, and distributing strawberries in the United States; to keep growers informed of strawberry movements from other regions, and to inform them daily of prices and conditions in the leading consuming markets. Hammond was selected as the location for the department's first field station because of the large proportions that the Louisiana strawberry industry had attained. Louisiana then ranked fourth in commercial strawberry importance. Today the state ranks second in carlot shipments.

"Holy Cannon" Worshipped in Batavia. In picturesque Batavia there is an ancient piece of ordnance half-buried in the ground, which is known as the "Holy Cannon." This is considered particularly sacred by the natives. At the breach of the cannon there is a casting of a man's wrist and hand, clenched tight. This symbol is regarded by the superstitious natives as a species of god, and worshipped accordingly. Childless women sit beside it, fully believing that their prayers for a family will be heard and granted.

One's Ideals. Humanity never rises above its ideals. What ought to be is always above and beyond what is. Unless, however, we have before us the vision of something better, we can never rise above what we are.—Exchanging.

"O, would that you knew what these little birds feel. Of beauty the whole day long, That they cannot refrain from telling their joy. In blarney, tumultuous song, Welling up from their hearts in a constant flow. So great is the ecstasy which they know."

WAYS TO SERVE GREENS

Wash watercress in salted water, heap on a salad plate and decorate with radish tulips. Cut the radishes in the form of flowers. Serve with mayonnaise dressing in the center.

Cream of Sorrel Soup.—Take two cupsfuls of sorrel, two cupsfuls of rice or vegetable stock, two cupsfuls of milk, two tablespoonfuls each of butter and flour, one teaspoonful of salt and a few dashes of paprika. Cook the sorrel in very little water until tender, mash through a sieve and add to the boiling stock and milk. Cook the butter until bubbling hot, add the flour and seasonings and mix all together until well cooked and hot.

Dandelion With Smoked Meat.—Cook a ham bone in plenty of water, remove the bone and add well-washed dandelions to the stock and cook until very tender. Serve the drained greens on a platter with the meat.

Escalloped Milkweed.—Take two quarts of boiled milkweed, drain and chop. Brush a baking dish with sweet drippings, sprinkle with buttered bread crumbs, then some of the greens, and one hard-cooked egg sliced; repeat and finish the top with the buttered crumbs. Bake thirty minutes.
